Look and Feel Your Polished Best

MIAMI, FLORIDA – June 15, 2010 – Ever feel like your body wash just isn't getting the job done? It either leaves behind a slimy film or sucks all the moisture from your skin, leaving it rough and flakey. Instead of feeling clean, moisturized, and ready to start your day, you feel like crawling back into bed and hitting the snooze button.

FemmeScience can help wash away this problem with the introduction of the Revitalizing Body Polish. The revolutionary formula is the best of both a scrub and a body wash, leaving you feeling fresh and your skin looking young, and vibrant. It's the only body wash that contains a combination of alpha and beta hydroxy acids and physical exfoliating ingredients to buff your skin without stripping it of its natural moisture. A 3% concentration of glycolic acid and a 1% concentration of salicylic acid work to loosen oil, impurities, and dead skin cells from the skin's surface, while ingredients like olive, almond oil, glycerin, and soy protect and replenish skin. These potent ingredients promote the growth of new, healthy cells, which leads to smoother, softer skin and a reduction in the appearance of rough areas and dark spots. By combining proprietary microfine buffing beads with a gentle cleansing formula, the polish also gently physically exfoliates skin, leaving it immediately soft and silky afterwards. FemmeScience's Revitalizing Body Polish will have you polished head to toe.
